

Earth Day

This year's HGTV Green Home is a modern Spanish-style home in Port St. Lucie, FL, and has already received the impressive LEED Platinum certification - and Solatube Daylighting Systems are included! Some even have our Light Kits and Daylight Dimmers.

Our products are featured in the kitchen and in the master bathroom, and are easily visible in exterior shots. The best part is, we didn't even have to pay a sponsorship fee - they included our products for free.

The promotion and launch of the Green Home this past weekend is great timing as we are in the final days of your 2009 Earth Day Greenbate. It's shaping up to be another fantastic promotion, and we thank you all for participating. It's easy to see you've already made an impact on the lives of homeowners across the country.

Thanks again, and we wish you success in this weekend's 48 Hour Event!

Just a little something to brighten your Earth Day,